

Green timetable full day out itinerary idea

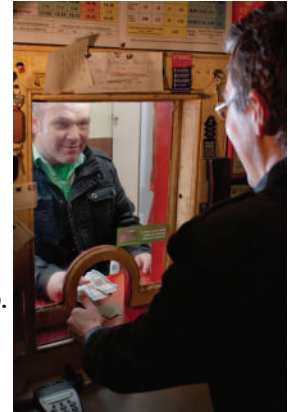

Make the most of your time with us with this itinerary idea, follow it in this order or at your own pace and make your own itinerary. There's a handy checklist on the back so you don't miss a thing!

10am Arrive, park in free car park & buy all day train & Museum ticket from authentic Booking Office at Bo'ness Station. EH51 9AQ.

10.30am Watch the engine being coupled up to the coaches then take your seat on the steam train. The Guard will be with you shortly so make yourself comfortable.

10.45am Steam train leaves Bo'ness, enjoy the views of the scenery & use On Either Side map. Visit the On Train Buffet & stay on train to Manuel.

Alight at Manuel & be amongst the first to step on to the new platform. See us move the locomotive from the front to the back of the train for the return journey & meet the driver on the footplate to get that all important photo memory.

There's a great view of the Edinburgh to Glasgow mainline to wave to the driver and passengers of the trains as they speed past. Listen for the Guard's whistle then get back on the train for your relaxing, nostalgic return journey, train travel the way it used to be!

11.25am All aboard for the journey back to Bo'ness. Why not try a different coach this time? We have three different types which are normally found on the 'branch set' which are the coaches of the train you are sat on today.

All built around the 1960s, there is the Tourist Standard Open coach (TSO) which has seating bays of four around a table, much like those of the most modern standard class coaches of today but with more comfortable springy seats! How about the Buffet Coach or Restaurant Miniature Buffet (RMB), make sure you enjoy a refreshment while you are there! Or you might like to sit in a compartment in our corridor coach which provides the perfect space for a family and has its own sliding door. Which one is your favourite?

11.49am arrive back in Bo'ness, some of our locomotives need to take water so look out for the water column at the East end of the platform. There's a picnic area right opposite if you want to enjoy your lunch or a takeaway from the Station Buffet.

Away from the platform there are other grassy areas by the Model Railway and picnic benches where there is space to let off steam! If the weather is not so good you are welcome to sit under the canopy at Bo'ness Station platform or enjoy food in the Station Buffet which is through the souvenir-filled Gift Shop.

Visit the Model Railway (open weekends & bank holidays) and Museum of Scottish Railways accessed via our new Visitor Trail which takes in a lot of the railway yard and will give you a great insight in to what goes on behind the scenes.

The Museum is full of historic locos & other railway items, family favourites include changing the signals, sorting letters in the Travelling Post Office and climbing on the locos.

Spotting fun on the new Visitor Trail to the Museum

Return to the station via the footbridge, you can get some great photos from there.

1.45pm Head back to the platform at Bo'ness for the final train of the day.

2.10pm Board this train, which type of coach will you travel in this time; an open coach, a buffet coach or a compartment coach? (see over)

2.27pm Alight at Birkhill Station and have a look around the station buildings. Maybe take a quick stroll up to see the water of the ancient Avon Gorge behind the station past the outer buildings of the former fireclay mine. You need to be back on the platform at Birkhill at 2.56pm to re-join the train back to Bo'ness.

3.07pm for fresh air and exercise alight at Kinneil Halt and enjoy a stroll along the scenic foreshore on the banks of the Firth of Forth through the local Nature Reserve, it should take no more than 15 minutes. (tip: use train toilet and buffet before alighting at Kinneil Halt!) For those who prefer a more leisurely pace, stay aboard the train and enjoy the views as you head back to Bo'ness Station.

3.14pm Train arrives at Bo'ness, alight and head for home after a great day out!

Your checklist, have you experienced everything?
